THEME EXPLANATION

UNIVERSITY OF

BEFORE the Civil War there existed in our Southern States a civilization which we now remember as the Old South. That civilization was unique in that never before its development nor since its destruction has there existed another like it. Like any other civilization, it had its faults as well as its glories, yet its record and its portraiture are important parts of the architecture of American civilization.

Among the greatest achievements of the Old South was its agrarian culture and its dominance in the field of leadership. Our University had its beginning in this civilization and grew up with it. In this connection the theme of this book is an attempt to make vivid the characteristics, the traditions, and the ideals of that age. If it does this it will have accomplished its purpose.

UNIVERSITY OF

To the Class of 1936:

AGAIN the time rolls around when those of the family who remain here must extend the farewell salute to those whom we welcomed so gladly four short years ago. In 1932 the magic numerals '36, no doubt, seemed to you an epoch away. With hastening feet and eager minds you hurried into that glamorous American tradition—"College". We hope the succeeding years have seemed as short to you as to us.

Our life together has been filled with manifold events; Loan fund campaigns, curriculum revisions, Student-Faculty days, Human Relations Institutes and world events have mingled with political cabals, activities, intimate friendships, Tar Heel reforms, courses inspiring and dull, exciting rumors, distressing tragedies, and all that varied kaleidoscope—aspersion and cynicism, effort and loafing, success and failure, joy and sorrow, with infinite personality variations—called higher education.

This book preserves in part the record—your life the impress. The happy artistry of memory will retouch the pictures for you throughout the years ahead. Comradeships will grow dearer, inspirations clearer; and failures and trials will be forgiven and forgot.

Alma Mater wishes you health of body, strength of character, clearness of vision, the passion for constructive citizenship which is its own reward, and invites you to that rich and continuous telepathy of the spirit which is active loyalty.

Francis F. Bradshaw
Dean of Students

THE academic year 1935-36 marks the beginning in actual practice of revisions in courses of study with which faculty and students have been constantly occupied during the four college years of the Class of '36.

For Freshmen and Sophomores the General College has been organized under Dean Spruill and a staff of advisers. It emphasizes English, Social Science, Natural Science, one foreign language, Mathematics, or, as a substitute for Mathematics, Greek or Latin, which, with one free elective, comprise the plan of study for these first two years as a general, but unified plan of study introductory to more specialized work in the Junior and Senior years. Exceptions to this general plan are made for students who desire more concentrated work in Applied Science, Medicine, Pharmacy, and, in some cases, Music. Moreover, provision is made in the General College for more individual programs of study under counsel of the advisers.

For Juniors and Seniors the College of Arts and Sciences, combining the old College of Liberal Arts, and the old School of Applied Science, offers programs of study under three faculties—Humanities, Social Sciences, Natural Sciences; three schools—Commerce, Public Administration, and Library Science offer special courses. Moreover, provision is made for individual programs for students under counsel of their deans, faculty chairmen of divisions, and department heads.

It is the object of these revisions to give more unity and continuity to each student in his intellectual growth, to give him more vital knowledge of himself, of the past out of which he comes, and of the present in which he lives; to give him a general basis but effective insight in Language, Social Science, Natural Science, Mathematics, or the Classics, and a more thorough grounding and skill in the line of his dominant intellectual interests.

THE GENERAL COLLEGE

C. P. SPRUILL, Dean.

THE establishment of the General College in the fall of 1935 inaugurated new curricula and administrative facilities for the students during the freshman and sophomore years. The courses of study intended: (1) to offer a variety of basic subjects generally regarded as the foundations of a liberal education, (2) to supply opportunities for the discovery of intellectual interests and occupational aptitudes, and (3) to provide preparation for later collegiate or professional training.

The administrative facilities are devoted to the more effective adaptation of the University's resources to each student's individual interests and needs. A faculty committee of seven advisers has direct responsibility for the orientation and guidance of all the members of the General College from the time of admission to the University until the time of transfer to one of the divisional programs in the junior year. Each member of this committee is the personal adviser of a definite group of students and attempts to help them make the best use of the several agencies which serve their physical, intellectual, and spiritual life. Thus through the adviser the University undertakes to establish with each student a human relationship directed toward the full development of his best qualities and abilities.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

THIS is the first year in which the title "College of Arts and Sciences" has been used. We have had for a long time "The College of Liberal Arts" and the "School of Applied Science." Nobody seems to know what "Arts" means in the title though it no doubt has a long and honorable history. It may be that the word "Liberal" coming before "Arts" has something to do with it, but this again is difficult. It has nothing to do with the question of liberty or license but is used in the humanistic sense, referring to that group of studies which show by what man lives beyond food and money. The Sciences are also humanistic in this connection although we generally think of "Applied Science" as referring to a body of knowledge which is designed for immediate application in the production of things for our physical well being. It is, however, difficult to see how there could be any well being without the physical things. The old designation Natural Philosophy fits very well into our conception of the place of science in the educational scheme. This University has always considered science to be one of the essential elements in any liberal education. On the wall of the Dean's office is a catalogue of the University for the year 1819, which shows a Professor of Moral Philosophy, one of Natural Philosophy and Mathematics, one of Chemistry and Mineralogy, one of Languages and one of Logic and Rhetoric and no more. Thus it can be seen that the sciences were heavily represented in the University at that early date. Student records of those early years are interesting from the point of view of modern ideas about education. I understand that later this University "went classical" and probably lost some of its early liberalism in the curriculum.

The purpose of the College is to give the opportunity to students to develop their talents in the intellectual world, to help them see a larger world, to fit them for the public service. Integrity and knowledge are our only hopes if we are to have an enduring civilization. We cannot go on very long unless we are willing to introduce more order into the economy of our country. At present those who try for this kind of order are labeled with all sorts of bad names in the hope that the people may still a little longer be kept in confusion. The only kind of prosperity worth fighting for is a long continued general prosperity, and this is the place for integrity and knowledge. For these purposes we believe in language, in science, in history, in philosophy, in art, in economics, in government, and we believe that the direction of progress is in learning before action, in experience before revolution; we place study before propaganda, so that in the end we may all be propagandists for the right based upon knowledge plus experience.

THE School of Commerce at the University of North Carolina was established in 1919. Although courses in economics and in certain business subjects had been offered before the establishment of the School, the regular business curriculum was not established until that year, 1919. Industrial growth has been very rapid since the World War, and there has been a wide demand for trained leaders in the various fields of commercial activity. The University of North Carolina has realized the importance of this demand for business leaders, and has set up a curriculum that will provide its students with as thorough and as scientific training as it is possible to give in this field. Courses are given in the subjects dealing with the cultural and social side of life, but the teaching policy is directed mainly along lines dealing with the organization and administration of typical business enterprises.

WHEN the University opened its doors in 1795 the first student to enter was Hinton James of Wilmington, who, after a brilliant career as a student, engaged in the practice of engineering. His breadth of interests here, ranging from astronomy to world commerce, was a fitting beginning for the broad cultural training which the institution has provided since that time for leaders in the constructive development of the resources of the State and Nation. In 1852 the School for the Application of Science to the Arts was founded, which by 1857 registered 69 students. Then came Civil War and Reconstruction, but with the reopening of the University in 1875 a College of Engineering was established. In 1904 Engineering became a division of the new School of Applied Science, and in 1922 the present School of Engineering was organized. The School of Engineering offers standard four-year curricula leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Science in Chemical, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

INTEREST in research and advanced study accompanied the foundation and history of the University. It is a matter of tradition that William R. Davie included graduate work in his project of the institution. Postgraduate instruction leading to a degree in course was undertaken prior to the Civil War, regulations governing it being incorporated in the catalogue of 1854. Upon the reopening of the University after the war, the plan for a graduate school was formulated. The degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy were conferred in 1883. The office of Dean was created in 1904. The graduate school was reorganized in 1919-1920, and experienced an impressive development. In 1922 the University was elected to membership in the Association of American Universities.

THE Law School, which has developed into the School of Law of the University of North Carolina, was founded at Chapel Hill in 1843 as a private school by William H. Battle, then a judge of the Superior Court. In 1845, Judge Battle was made Professor of Law in the University, and it was provided that the degree of Bachelor of Laws should be conferred on those completing the prescribed two-year course. For a long time the School maintained a certain independence from the University and students in law were not entirely subject to the discipline of the University. In 1899, the school was completely incorporated into the University, with the late James C. McRae as the first Dean of the Law School.

The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and has been listed as one of the sixty-five schools classed as "approved law schools".

THE beginning of medical instruction at the University of North Carolina dates back to 1879, when Dr. Thomas W. Harris conducted here a medical class under the preceptorial method of instruction with the assistance of certain University departments. The school was discontinued in 1886. In 1890 the present School of Medicine was founded under the direction of Dr. Richard H. Whitehead, and in 1900 became incorporated into the University as a fully organized two year medical school.

Since that date the School has had an uninterrupted record of service to the State, has continued to grow in influence throughout the State and Nation, and has won for itself a record among medical educators for the excellence and thoroughness of its work.

In 1898 it was admitted to membership into the Association of American Medical Colleges, and is ranked in Class A group of American Medical Schools. Over 600 of the 2300 practicing physicians in North Carolina today are alumni of the institution, and they include and have included many of the most prominent and influential physicians in North Carolina.

SUSAN B. AKERS
Dean

THE School of Library Science of The University of North Carolina opened in September 1931. Courses in Library Science had been offered since 1904. A grant from the Carnegie Corporation, however, made it possible to establish a professional school offering a one-year curriculum leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Library Science. The School is accredited by the American Library Association. It trains librarians for public, school, college and university libraries. The principal requirement for admission is a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university or senior standing in this institution.

Beginning with the Summer Session of 1935, the regular curriculum is being offered through consecutive summers. This enables teachers who desire to become librarians and can only secure their training in the summer, an opportunity to complete a full-year course. It also provides an opportunity for partially trained librarians to complete their training.

With the reorganization of the University into divisions, the School became a member of the Division of the Library and Library School.

Although only in its fifth year, graduates of the School are in libraries in seventeen states and the District of Columbia.

COURSES in Pharmacy were given at the University from 1880 to 1897 under the administration of the School of Medicine. In 1897, the present School of Pharmacy was established, and Edward Vernon Howell was elected Professor of Pharmacy, and given charge of the School. In 1927 the School was admitted to membership in the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, an organization founded for the promotion of pharmaceutical education. In order to comply with the Association's requirements the course of study leading to the degree of Graduate in Pharmacy had been advanced in 1925 from two to three years, and in September, 1932, the three year course was replaced by a baccalaureate course. The present curriculum is so arranged that elective specialization begins in the Junior year so as to allow graduates to enter any one of three different types of pharmaceutical service.

THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

THE Music Department was organized in 1919 under the direction of Professor Paul J. Weaver. In 1921-22 courses in various branches of Applied Music were added, and in 1929 the special degree A. B. in Music was instituted.

During the entire history of the Department the various musical organizations have gained distinction throughout the nation for the high quality of their work. With the completion of the Hill Music Hall in 1930, excellent physical equipment was made available to the Department, including an auditorium with a modern four manual organ, together with classrooms and facilities for practice.

Since the beginning the faculty has gradually been increased until now the Department is prepared to give a course covering all the principal fields of musical instruction. The musical organizations now include a band, orchestra, Men's Glee Club, Women's Glee Club, and the Chapel Hill Choral Club.

THE DEPARTMENT OF DRAMA

THE Department of Drama is designed to give a good background in the literature of the drama and the theatre, and training in the theatre arts and play-writing.

The fellowship of Playmakers evolved as a distinct group in the fall of 1918, when Dr. Edwin Greenlaw, the Head of the Department of English, realized that the State of North Carolina was a rich field for the making of native folk drama. The Carolina Playmakers was founded at this time by Dr. Frederick H. Koch, who is an outstanding figure in the field of drama. Since 1918, the work in the theatre arts has advanced rapidly and stands today as one of the outstanding departments of the University.

FACULTY PERSONALITIES...

K. C. FRAZER

Is characteristically sarcastic, but it is of the entertaining rather than the biting kind. Has used it to make interesting many a course that would have been otherwise dry.

ENGLISH BAGBY

Found a psychological explanation for every event on the campus and elsewhere. Hobbies are public speaking, a freak grading system, and white rats.

E. J. WOODHOUSE

Has his own ideas about teaching government courses, and 100% of the A.B. school agree with them. Enters into forensic activities when he finds it necessary to defend capitalism.

W. A. OLSEN

Succeeded in convincing many of us that public speaking is one of the more complicated arts. It has been said that no banquet is complete without his contribution.

R. W. LINKER

Became a good French instructor without acquiring the undesirable characteristics of that department. Refused to let the dignity of his profession interfere with his social activity.

W. S. JENKINS

Has been called the spherical pontiff of political science. Well learned, well liked, and known to many friends as "Doctor Billy."

O. J. COFFIN

Hard boiled, hard talking, dearly beloved czar of the school of journalism. His popularity has reached statewide proportions.

E. M. BERNSTEIN

Ranks high in popularity because of his teaching ability and because of a personal interest in his students. Next to tennis he prefers monetary theory.

J. P. HARLAND

His courses in archaeology made him one of the most sought after teachers on the campus. Could just as well teach a course on the ethics of gentlemanly conduct.

R. S. WINSLOW

His free use of the English language made some of his lectures very entertaining, but an F-complex made him the most carefully avoided prof in the commerce school.

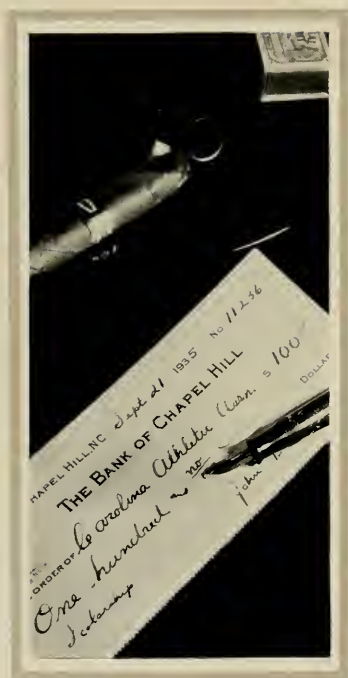

P. H. KOCH

Became distinguished by his creation of the Playmakers and Paul Green. Has taught several courses on Koch.

E. R. GROVES

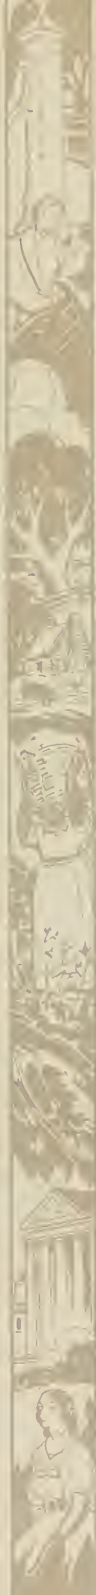

Acquired national distinction with his book and course on marriage. The latter became the most popular course in the under-graduate school.

METHOD OF SELECTION

BY custom of many preceding years, pictures of alumni of the University have been presented in the alumni section of student year-books. Most often the ones selected for such recognition have been men of prominence in the state and in the nation because of their attainments in their special fields as well as because of their interest in and loyalty to Alma Mater. The basis for the selection this year differed slightly from the accustomed procedure. Not that the alumni presented here are less prominent, not that they are disinterested in the University, but rather their selection was motivated in the endeavor to recognize and show appreciation to men who have been especially active in alumni affairs. A good local club officer, a successful alumni class officer, a hard worker in the ranks—these are the men who have been chosen this year to represent University alumni. The list presented does not in any sense form a complete roster of such persons. Instead, it attempts to indicate the appreciation of the University and of the students for services well performed in the conduct of alumni affairs. UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

DR. HOWARD E. RONDTHALER.....	President
JESSE HARPER ERWIN, JR.	First Vice-President
ROBERT C. DEROSSET.....	Second Vice-President
GEORGE WATTS HILL	Treasurer
J. MARION SAUNDERS	Executive Secretary

THE Alumni Association, formed in 1843, endeavors through local alumni clubs, permanently organized classes, an annual General Assembly, various committees and projects, and THE ALUMNI REVIEW to supply channels for 22,000 living graduates and former students to express their interest in the University and to promote its welfare. The Association in its active program seeks to encourage active loyalty wherever such exists and to stimulate interest and loyalty when needed. The social side of continuing college contacts flourishes in local club meetings, class reunions, homecomings, etc. Through the columns of THE ALUMNI REVIEW, the official magazine, alumni have an opportunity of keeping up with affairs in Chapel Hill and along the far flung alumni front. As epitomized by one alumnus, the Alumni Association endeavors to link the Past with the Present for the Future of Alma Mater.

Membership in the Association is open to any graduate or former student. Full details are always available at the Alumni Offices in the Carolina Inn—headquarters in Chapel Hill for all alumni.

STUDENT COUNCIL

FRANCIS H. FAIRLEY
President of Student Body

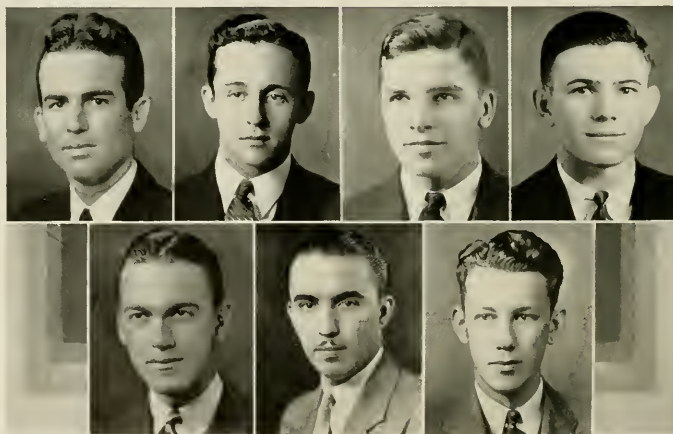

STUDENT government at the University of North Carolina has developed through the years into one of the finest features of student life. Since 1876 when the Honor System was first adopted student government has grown slowly but steadily, gradually and carefully extending its scope and building a balanced system of student government. A survey made a few years ago by the General Education Board gave credit to the University for having a system which more nearly approached absolute student self-government than that of any other college in the nation.

A student's whole life here is based on the Honor Principle, the principle of individual honor, the idea that a student stands or falls on his own efforts. The Honor System is the working formula to effect and maintain high standards of individual honor. Under the Honor System every student is on his honor not to cheat, lie, or steal; and in case he sees another student doing so he is on his honor to report the violator to the Student Council. Breaches of conduct, separate from breaches of honor, are covered by the Campus Code under which every student is bound on his responsibility as a gentleman to conduct himself as such at all times and to see to it, insofar as possible, that his fellow students do likewise. Violations of the Honor System and of the Campus Code are reported to the Council and are tried by the Council. In administering its disciplinary function the Council attempts to be constructively corrective rather than punitive.

The Student Council attempts also to further interest in student government and in its continuous improvement. During the current year the Student Body and the Council faced a crisis in the Honor System and in self-government. The crisis has successfully passed and the Student Council is now attempting to guide the Student Body to a higher concept of honor and to a finer, more integrated form of student self-government resting on the active interest and cooperation of every member of the Student Body.

FRANCIS H. FAIRLEY,
President of the Student Body.

THE PUBLICATIONS UNION BOARD

THE Publications Union Board acts as a co-ordinator for the financial affairs and other difficulties that may arise in relation to any of the four student publications—"Yackety Yack", "Daily Tar Heel", "Carolina Buccaneer", and "Carolina Magazine".

The Board consists of five members and a Faculty Advisor. Three of the members are students elected by the Student Body for one year terms, one representing the Senior Class, one the Junior Class, and one a representative of the Student Body at large.

The remaining two are members of the Faculty, appointed by the Administration for two year terms, one coming from the English Department and the other from the Economics. The Faculty Advisor sits in on the meetings, but does not have a vote.

The Board handles all financial affairs for the publications, appoints the Business Managers and Managing Editors for all publications, awards contracts, and settles matters not within the scope of any particular organ.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

THE Athletic Council has control over all matters concerning athletics at the University. Its membership is composed of three faculty members appointed by the President; three alumni members elected by the alumni; three student members—the President of the Student Body, the President of the General Athletic Association, and a delegate elected by the Monogram Club; the Director of Athletics, and the assistant Director of Athletics.

In addition, there is a Department of Intramural Athletics which sponsors a diversified program for all students who do not have the time or ability for varsity or freshman competitions. The goal is active participation by every student in some form of athletics.

THE editorial work on the year-book can be divided into two categories. The first of these is gathering a collection of data that will accurately portray the organization of activities during the school year. The other is to develop a theme or art motif and a system of lay-outs that will give the book a personality not found in a catalog or directory.

In this book an attempt has been made to arrange data so as to present it in a pleasing manner and at the same time to carry out a theme that will give the book depth and sincerity, and if possible, make it distinctive.

The staff is greatly indebted to Dr. Howard W. Odum for his helpful suggestions, supervision, and whole-hearted cooperation in planning the theme of this book. Such a theme could not have been properly handled without the assistance of one well informed on this phase of American civilization.

Mr. Kenneth Whitsett of the Pictorial Engraving Co. personally executed all of the art work and did much research in the development of the theme. Mr. Frank Fleming of the Lassiter Press supervised the technique of the printing to conform with the theme and general plan of the book.

It is only fair that mention be made of the staff members who were largely responsible for collection of the great mass of materials necessary for the completion of this book. Without their help this book could not have been possible.

REPORTERS

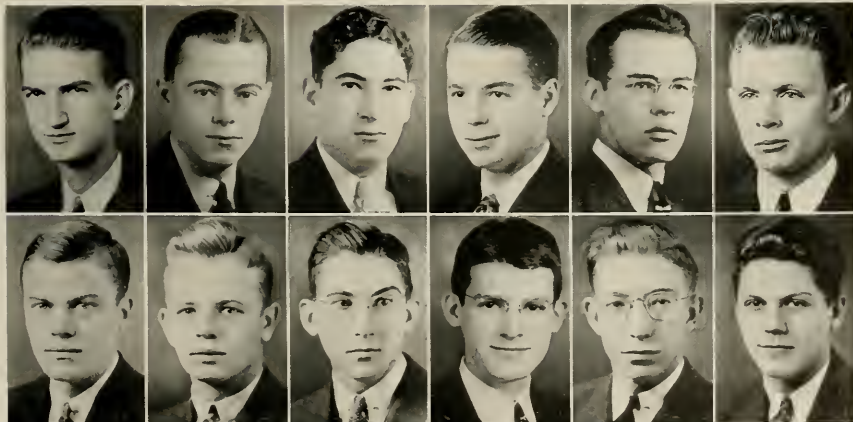

IRVING SUSS, Chm.
Editorial Board

ANY review of the past year's activities on the Daily Tar Heel re-emphasizes to me one feature particularly—the untiring, unselfish work of the staff members. Nothing has given me greater satisfaction or been a source of more deserving praise than the consistent plugging of these students who have worked faithfully to produce a good, aggressive campus newspaper, which for all its faults, has been successful if its motives and spirit be considered.

A campus newspaper is not just a news sheet. It has a definite function to perform in carrying to every student issues of importance, in pressing opinions in "crusading", if you will. It has a large responsibility in its news coverage, yes; but it has an even larger one in its stand for improvements in student government, in living conditions, in standards of education and athletics and campus activities. Naturally, its views will not be shared by the whole campus; indeed, we were lucky when our views were shared by any majority whatever. Nevertheless, the columns have been, and should always be, open for all shades of thought. Censorship of student expression by other students who were elected to edit the newspaper must not exist. By the same token, those editors must be allowed the right to take their official stands on student issues in the same manner.

If the Daily Tar Heel has caused comment and thought and action to any marked degree, if it has served as a medium of news but better still as a medium of interpretation and definition, if it has hurt in some quarters but has done anything toward the betterment of our University community as a whole—then it has been a success and the hours which the staff has spent in its daily preparation have been well-spent. The year has been a hectic one, yet the multitude of problems, if we have done our duty, could only have served to improve our minds and the intellectual quality of our campus. To the extent that the Daily Tar Heel has helped in this constructive interpretation of our year's events, it has carried on successfully for 1935-36 its traditions as a representative, progressive campus newspaper.

THE CAROLINA BUCCANEER

WITH new personnel and aims, the Carolina Buccaneer has this year attempted to be an amusing record of the lighter sides of college life. Scorning dirt for its own sake, the Buccaneer has for the first time attempted to appeal to the intelligent, and has at the same time endeavored worthily and intelligently to represent the University beyond Chapel Hill.

No necks have been broken, no agony wasted in attempts to make the Buccaneer screamingly funny, because the editor believes that the production of first-rate humor requires a maturity of outlook which college undergraduates simply do not possess. Above everything, we have tried to make the Buccaneer well-written and interesting.

Preferring an urbane substitute for humor to an inane compromise between washroom vulgarity and smart-alec libel of personalities, we have attempted to record or satirize whatever seemed pompous, affected, pretentious or artificial in the life around us. If we have not wholly succeeded, it has not been because we did not try. For the first time, the editorial staff has been largely made up of seniors, with a scattering of reasonably intelligent representatives of the other three classes.

To the already existent departments on fashions and music, were added: "Shadows Before", a calendar of civilized comment on University activities; a Sports page for athletic enthusiasts; "As They Are", a page devoted each month to an outstanding member of the faculty whose achievements or whose personality makes him a valuable part of an education here; "As Thousands Cheer", snapshots and comment on five outstanding campus leaders; "Stolen Treasure", a page of exchanges; "We Quote", a monthly anthology of acute and absurd observations from the classroom and other sources; two regular columns, and "Back Seat Driving", a page of editorial comment.

The art staff directed its efforts as far as possible toward campus satire, and partially succeeded in ignoring the conventional moulds into which type drawings are cast in most contemporary magazines. New emphasis was placed on photography. "Little Stories with the Camera", chansons sans paroles, as it were; ironic illustrations of famous lines from literature; and snapshots of the five men-of-the-month raised somewhat the standard of illustrations.

Whatever lapses from its aims the Buccaneer suffered, they have not been lapses of taste. We are proud of that. For the first time since anybody we know can remember, the Buccaneer has had the dignity which is accorded a publication written with decency and self-respect, by a staff as hard-working as they are intelligent. We have given you not what you wanted, but what you ought to have had, and the amazing thing about it is that you have, generally speaking, liked it.

THE CAROLINA MAGAZINE

ESTABLISHED 1844

Oldest College Publication in the United States

UNDER its two previous editors, Don Shoemaker and Joe Sugarman, the Carolina Magazine swung away from its former status as a laboratory for experimental writing in an effort to become of significance and interest to all students rather than of sole concern to the literati. This year the editorial policy has followed in the same general direction, with certain deviations from the path.

Articles dealing with important social and political issues, especially those concerning the university, the state or the south, have continued predominant, along with essays of a less serious nature. But because of demand by students (and also because one or two real story-tellers turned up), more fiction has been used—about three short stories per issue, as compared with a single piece of fiction per issue last year. There has been little poetry, partly because there are many poetasters but few poets on the campus, and partly because most collegiate poetry has in the past met with little favor.

The editor early discovered that student taste is indeterminable. A story praised by one student as "the best story I've read in any magazine" is certain to strike someone else as "the worst I've ever read". Which leaves the editor with nothing to guide him except his own likes and dislikes and the warning that he should inject as much variety as possible into each issue in order that every reader may find something personally interesting.

THE DIALECTIC SENATE

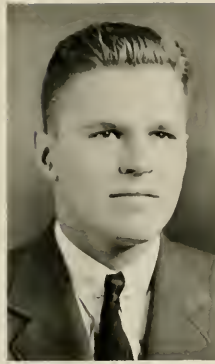

THE Dialectic Senate was organized in 1795 with the opening of the University itself. It was known as "The Debating Society". Its members engaged in reading, speaking and giving exercises in composition. This original organization became the "Dialectic Society" and later the "Dialectic Senate", which name it bears today. During a good part of its history the Dialectic Senate and its sister body, the Philanthropic Assembly, furnished the core of student government of the University. These two organizations also published the "University Magazine", substantially endowed the library and conducted various other activities.

In recent years the Senate has confined its activities chiefly to deliberation and discussion of topics of campus-wide and world-wide interest. Students are given an opportunity to engage in debate and to further their speaking and thinking ability. Women students are now admitted to the Di on an equal basis with men. A forward thinking organization, the Dialectic Senate offers excellent training for future citizens.

THE PHILANTHROPIC ASSEMBLY

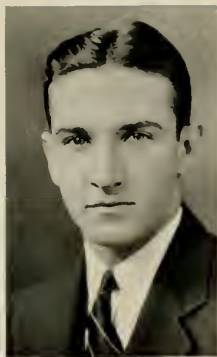

THE history of the Philanthropic Assembly dates from the opening of the University in 1795. It was for years organized on the usual plan for literary societies.

As a great endower of the University Library and as a driving force in student government, the Phi has contributed throughout the years to the progress of the University and the student body.

In 1919, the Phi was reorganized on the plan of the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina. Parliamentary procedure is followed in such a way that it proves a stimulating rather than a repressive influence to free expressions of opinion. Compulsory membership is no longer required of students but, nevertheless, the present membership is approximately one hundred.

Subjects for debate are chosen because of their importance to contemporary life. The Phi offers students an opportunity to express themselves on questions of current interest ranging from campus to international affairs.

UNIVERSITY DEBATING ACTIVITIES

THE purpose of debating at the University is to give students training in public speaking with a view to their participation in public affairs, to help them to a better understanding of important and persistent problems, and to offer the public an opportunity of hearing such problems discussed. Courtesy and good manners are stressed; a violation is almost unforgivable. No ungenerous epithets, no mimicing of the opponents' mannerisms, no unfriendly sarcasm is tolerated. The men must be severe on weak arguments, but polite to the man who uses them.

The debate group or squad, composed of any students who are interested, meets once a week to analyze and discuss questions. Those who are most competent and have contributed most to the success of debating for the year are chosen for one of the long trips in the spring. Occasional short trips are scheduled, and a few of the debates are broadcast over the radio. One of the fruitful and pleasant features of the activity is the receiving and entertaining of visiting teams. The highlight of the year is the annual international debate.

Sitting: PARKER, LANSDALE, YEATMAN, WINGFIELD, McMILLAN, KERLEY.
Standing: MCKIE, McMULLAN, FAIRLEY, SEAWELL, PERRINS, OLSEN, TOON, KLUTZ, DUREEE, WOODHOUSE.

Non-decision debates make a distinctive feature of Carolina debating. The old system of judges' decisions, an inducement to artificiality, insincerity, and concentration on two or three "champions", who debate time after time on the same subject, is not tolerated. Debating is not considered an altercation, an elocutionary exhibition, a laboratory exercise in logic, or an intercollegiate sport. Specifically, fair, sincere, realistic discussion, addressed to an audience rather than a set of judges is encouraged. And with non-decision debates, the attendance has increased.

The purpose of debating at the University of North Carolina is to give the student training in public speaking with a view of their participation in public affairs, to help them to better understanding of important and persistent problems, and to offer the public an opportunity of hearing such problems discussed.

THE Inter-Dormitory Council was reestablished in 1934 for the purpose of establishing better intra-dormitory relations and the facilitating of inter-dormitory rules and regulations. It promotes activities for dormitory residents and settles problems relating thereto.

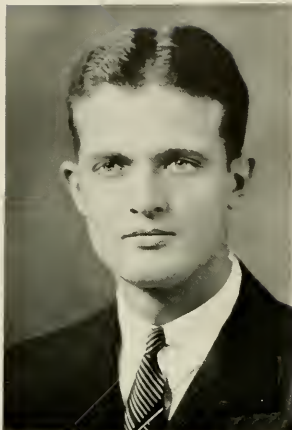

The higher judicial powers of the organization are invested in a Council of Dormitory Presidents, which tries all cases of dormitory misbehavior and acts on measures when extremely prompt action is needed.

In each dormitory there is an individual council, composed of the officers, councillors, and athletic directors therein. Here specific problems relating only to the individual dormitories are settled, and if not, the matters are carried to the higher councils. Each Council promotes social functions and other projects within its own dormitory.

THE UNIVERSITY CLUB

THE members of the University Club are selected in the spring of each year from the rising Junior Class. One representative is chosen from each dormitory and fraternity with three selected non-fraternity men acting as representatives at large. Thus the Club is able to closely contact every phase of life on the campus, keeping it interested in the work of the Club.

COACH BOB FETZER

The work of the University Club is fourfold. During the fall quarter it keeps up the "University Spirit" by pep meetings and torch light parades held before football games, by entertainment during the half of the games, and by the presentation of various sponsors and celebrities.

The Club co-operates with all worthy student movements, endeavoring to make them a success and is associated especially with the General Alumni office and the Athletic Association.

The group tries to keep alive alumni interest and to create a demand for the University of North Carolina in prospective students. This is accomplished by radio programs which cover a portion of the entire South, appealing to both groups. The University Club has aided the University Alumni groups in holding informal meetings in several North Carolina cities.

The fourth phase of the Club's work concerns itself with the improvement of inter-school relations. The Club meets visiting athletic teams, entertaining them during their stay on the campus, in an attempt to create goodwill between the schools.

SOPHOMORE CABINET

THE University of North Carolina Young Men's Christian Association is the third oldest YMCA in the colleges of the United States, and is among the oldest student organizations on this campus, having been established here in 1860. (Its purpose and programs encompass the religious, social, and welfare interest of the campus, and seeks to cooperate with campus life in general.)

The Association is organized for leadership under three cabinets, a Board of Directors, and a staff of three employed secretaries. The program features include the operation of the building for general campus use, the Self-help Bureau, General Information Office, weekly meetings of the cabinets, special speakers to the campus from individual speakers to groups as large as the Human Relations Institute, Student-Faculty Day, Special Discussion Forums, Deputation teams to high school and other communities, boys' club work and other community service, Participation with other schools in various conferences and conventions, counseling and guidance to students, and many other smaller program items.

THE American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the national organization representing the profession of Electrical Engineering, was founded in 1884, its objects being the advancement of theory and practice of Electrical Engineering, the maintenance of high professional standards among its members, and the development of the individual engineer. In 1902, with this latter objective in view, the Student Branches of the A. E. E. E. were organized. Now, practically every engineering school in the nation has one of these branches, giving its Electrical Engineering students an opportunity to become well acquainted with the profession, and guiding them toward specialized fields.

The University of North Carolina branch had its beginning in 1902, the first year of student branches. All students in Electrical Engineering are considered as members of the branch, and upon payment of dues to the national secretary may become members of the national organization. Upon graduation student members of the branch may transfer to the grade of associate members.

In previous years the U. N. C. branch has conducted one meeting a month, but this year meetings have been held twice a month. The program, other than business matters, usually consists of a paper or talk presented by an outsider, and at the same time are able to obtain the advice of one who has had actual experience in the field of Engineering. Definite advantages of membership in the A. I. E. E. Student Branch are that the member meets leaders in his chosen profession, has the chance to develop his public speaking, and is in touch with the latest development in Electrical Engineering.

THE Woman's Association, composed of all women students of the University, is the student governing organization of the women. The executive body is the Student Council and its purpose is to broaden and enrich the relations of the students in and with the Association and the University, by and through student government and activities.

The Student Council deals with all matters pertaining to the Honor System, the Campus Code, and regulations applying particularly to women students. It has final disciplinary power. In achieving the supreme in student self-government the Council maintains at all times a constructive and educational policy conducive to freedom of individual development in thought and action. It is composed of seven members elected by the Woman's Association at large in the spring of each year. This year officers were elected representative of each class. Other members are: House President of Spencer Hall, President of Archer House as graduate representative, and a town-student representative.

CAROLINA 14, WAKE FOREST 0

Carolina opened the pages of its 1935 edition with a 14-0 triumph over a strong Wake Forest eleven in Kenan Stadium. Using only straight football, Carolina tallied in the second and third quarters as Hutchins slipped over guard for both touchdowns and Daniel made good both placements.

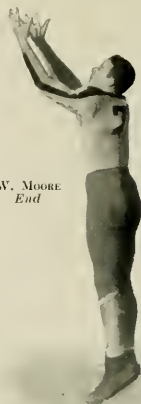

CAROLINA 38, TENNESSEE 13

Coach Snavelly's bunch avenged its sole defeat of the 1934 season when it upset Tennessee's Vols 38-13 before 19,000 fans at Knoxville. Daniel's first period field goal ignited the fireworks, and thereafter Jackson on two occasions and Buck, Hutchins, and Burnette once each crossed for touchdowns. Daniel added four extras and Burnette one.

Tennessee's pair of tallies came in the second and fourth periods on passes to Ditmore and Eblen. The game's most spectacular run was made by Burnette, sophomore back, who took the final Vol kickoff for an 86-yard touchdown jaunt.

CAROLINA 33, MARYLAND 0

That the Carolina aggregation really packed dynamite was proven when it trampled over the Maryland Terps 33-0 at Baltimore. It wasted no time swinging into action, scoring 20 points in the opening quarter on two tallies by Jackson and a 50-yard pass Jackson to Buck. Daniel added two extras.

For the second and third periods Maryland held the Tar Heels in check, but with the opening of the last, the Chapel Hill contingent started a fourth goalward drive, which culminated in Bershak stepping 14-yards on an end-around-end play for the score. With less than a minute to play Ditt scored on a lateral from Montgomery, and McIver's placement made it 33.

CAROLINA 14, DAVIDSON 0

Returning to native soil on October 19th, Carolina downed Davidson's Wildcats on Richardson Field by a 14-0 margin. That afternoon it was Montgomery and Daniel in the scoring roles. Montgomery tallied from the 11 early in the second quarter and from the 3 near the close of the third. Daniel's pair of conversions brought his record to 10 in 12 tries.

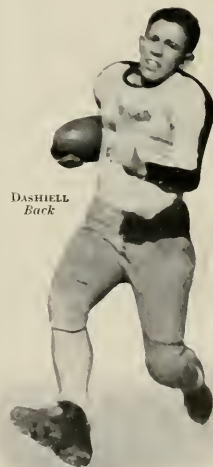

CAROLINA 19, GEORGIA TECH 0

Playing before 20,000 fans, the Tar Heels celebrated Homecoming Day by trouncing Georgia Tech 19-0. Early in the second stanza, Hutchins started a touchdown drive when he carried to Tech's 32. A pass to Moore added 16, and then Bershak cut around end for a touchdown. Daniel added the point.

Mid-way in the third period Jackson returned a punt to the Tech 40, and after gains by Hutchins and Snyder, hurled an aerial to Moore, who stepped 6 yards to the goal. The final quarter saw reserve halfback Little supplying the fireworks with a 25-yard dash to the 1-yard mark, and then a plunge over for the score.

CAROLINA 35, N. C. STATE 6

As 20,000 packed Raleigh's Riddock Field to overflowing, the Tar Heels displayed a bewildering pass attack that sunk "Hunk" Anderson's Wolfpack under a 35-6 count. Carolina's initial score came on the opening play of the second quarter as Montgomery stepped four yards over Joyce's guard. Daniel's kick was good.

Bershak recovered Enwistle's fumble in the third to start Carolina goalward again. After advances by Montgomery and Hutchins, Jackson passed to Buck who went 15 yards for the score. Daniel again kicked. Shortly thereafter Hutchins lateraled to Jackson, who shot a touchdown pass to Bershak. Daniel converted.

In the final stanza, McCachren intercepted passes to pave the way for the last pair of Carolina scores. First he carried 23 yards to the State 7 from where Hutchins bucked over, and later took the ball directly over from the 30. McIver made good both conversions. State's lone score came in the final seconds of play when Davis passed over the goal to Berry.

CAROLINA 56, V. M. I. 0

stitute under a 56-0 avalanche in Kenan Stadium. Sharing scoring honors were Jackson, Little, and Graves with two touchdowns each, and Hutchins, Evins, and McCachren with one each. Daniel and McIver added the extras.

CAROLINA 0, DUKE 25

In one of 1935's biggest upsets, Duke's Blue Devils spelled finish to the Carolina win streak with a 25-0 win before 47,000 fans in rain-soaked Duke Stadium. After Carolina had failed on a first quarter scoring threat, preceded by Jackson's 75-yard run from behind his own goal, the Duke artillery swung into action. Ward twice, and Alexander and Parker once each went over the goal.

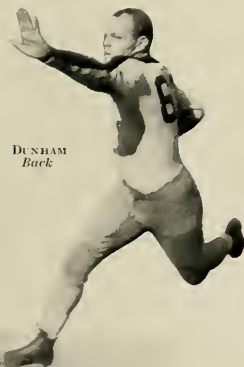

CAROLINA 61, VIRGINIA 0

Carolina closed its season in grand fashion by routing Virginia's Cavaliers 61-0 in the annual Turkey Day classic at Chapel Hill. Using every sort of ground gaining device possible, the Tar Heels pushed over nine touchdowns and added seven extra points.

Before the crowd had hardly been seated, Carolina pulled away to a 14-0 first period lead, and added 14, 13, and 20 points in the remaining. Along with Jackson's two, Montgomery, Hutchins, Ray, Dashiell, Moore, Buck, and Little scored touchdowns, while Daniel added six extras and Pendergraft one.

BASKETBALL

After a slow start, Coach Walter Skidmore's White Phantoms came through to garner their third straight "Big Five" title and successfully defend their Southern Conference crown with a season's record of 21 wins in 25 starts. The 1936 club established itself as one of the hardest fighting-comeback teams in U. N. C. court history.

The opening game saw the Phantoms receive quite a scare from Clemson but manage to eke out a 24-23 triumph. Then came wins over Davidson, Wake Forest, and V. P. I. Before the W. & L. contest, Nelson sprained his ankle and was forced out of action; the Generals won a close battle 28-25 at Lexington.

Virginia proved easy pickings, falling 38-25. With Nelson still injured and Ruth forced out with an injury, Carolina was defeated 55-33 by N. Y. U.'s quintet in Madison Square Garden. Carolina came back to snap State's winning streak by a 37-35 count in the Tin Can. South Carolina and V. M. I. next fell before the Phantoms.

The Virginia Cavaliers gained revenge by downing Carolina 33-30 in an overtime affair. Victories over Maryland and V. P. I. followed. The second meeting with South Carolina saw the Gamecocks only lose by a 43-41 margin. Wake Forest was beaten 32-23.

Duke's Blue Devils defeated Carolina in a thrilling overtime game 36-34. Navy lost the annual tilt 39-25. After two-weeks layoff, Carolina met and triumphed over Duke 30-28 at Durham, after being down six points at half time. Three nights later, Clemson was nosed 35-34 in an over-time, Ruth sinking a field goal with five seconds remaining.

N. C. State sought revenge at Raleigh, but failed as Carolina rallied to win 31-29. V. M. I. furnished surprisingly strong opposition, forcing Carolina to an overtime period before losing 35-31. Davidson lost 31-16 and Carolina took another "Big Five" title.

The Southern Conference tournament opened with Carolina swamping Virginia 39-21. The "three times" jinx failed to materialize in the semi-finals as U. N. C. eliminated N. C. State 31-28 to gain the final round against W. & L. After trailing 31-19 at half time, the Phantoms staged a phenomenal rally in the final minutes to outscore the Generals 31-14 for that half, win the game 50-45, and take away the trophy for keeps.

Perhaps the outstanding feature of the team's success was the fact that it possessed no great stars, each man coming through to do his turn when the team seemed to need him most. However, mention must be made of the sterling leadership exhibited by Captain James McCachren, who repeated as All-Southern guard. High scoring honors went to Andy Bershak. Mel Nelson and Earl Ruth made the Second All-Conference team, the latter also being elected captain for 1937.

Despite the loss of some of its members, the boxing team showed a season's record of two victories, two ties, and two losses. Coach Rowe tried vainly to shake off the jinx that seems to follow the pugilists, but met with little success.

In the opening meet of the year, the Tar Heels journeyed to Columbia, S. C., and defeated the South Carolina team by a close $4\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$ score. Knockout wins were gained by lightweight Bill Shores over Cortledge in 15 seconds of the opening round, and light heavyweight Max Novich over Fuller in the third.

The second meet of the year saw the V. P. I. team whipped 7-1 at Chapel Hill. Diehl, Shores, Medynski, Taylor, and Novich won on knockouts, Fisher by decision, and Ray on another forfeit. Captain Eutsler was again the victim of a close call, Hall taking a narrow margin.

The Southern Conference titlists of Virginia subdued the Tar Heels at Charlottesville by a 6-2 count. Diehl and Medynski were the sole Carolina made a good showing, but only Max Novich was able to take a title, winning the light heavyweight crown. Novich was elected captain for 1937 at the end of the season.

In the National Intercollegiate Tournament, Diehl reached the semi-finals, and Novich and Medynski the finals. All three Tar Heels went to the Olympic tryouts held in Chicago.

Carolina's baseball activities for the 1935 season failed to continue the long wake of Tar Heel victories established in the previous season as it won only 8 out of 22 games. Coach Bunn Hearn had a well-rounded team except for a strong pitching staff, which necessitated head pitcher Freddy Crouch working more than an average amount of games.

In "Big Five" competition, Carolina won 5 and lost 8, splitting a four-game series with N. C. State, losing thrice to Duke, winning one and losing two against Wake Forest, and winning two and losing one with Davidson.

Southern Conference engagements resulted in an even more disastrous result, the team winning only three games, its pair over N. C. State and one over Virginia, while taking reverses twice at the hands of the Wolfpack, thrice from the Blue Devils, and once each from Virginia and Maryland.

Perhaps the most outstanding game of the season was the final encounter at Annapolis against Navy, from which the Tars emerged with an 11-8 victory. Catcher Strayhorn led the attack against the Middies with four hits, including a homer and a double, while Tatum was second man with three bingles.

Carolina's finest games on the home field were victories over Virginia and State. In the former it came through to send the Cavaliers' Abbott down to defeat by knocking out nine safe blows and bunting runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Its win over N. C. State by a 5-3 count as Crouch hurled effective ball and was strongly backed by his team to keep the Wolfpack well in hand.

The team was captained by "T" Vick, flashy outfielder. Buck McCarn, playing at first base, led the home run hitters with three circuit clouts, while Strayhorn and Tatum each garnered a pair, and Trip Rand and Ed Voliva got one each.

UNIVERSITY OF

The Carolina tennis team went through a highly successful 1935 season, losing only once in 19 starts and bringing its record of victories up to 92 against two defeats since 1929.

With five veteran players as a nucleus and several promising sophomores, Coach John E. Kenfield developed a strong aggregation. Outstanding victories were gained over such excellent opponents as Yale, Dartmouth, Duke, Amherst, Army, and Williams.

Led by Captain Walter Levitan, the squad consisted of Harvey Harris, Richard Willis, William Minor, Edward DeGray, Frank Shore, Archibald Henderson, Jr., Byron Abels, Laurence Jones, and Mark Lynch. The racquet-wielders got off to an auspicious start, winning their first 12 meets with 88 points to the oppositions' five.

Although the first meet of the annual northern invasion was a setback, the remainder was highly successful. The Princeton netmen were the sole ones to mar an otherwise perfect season, repeating their 1934 performance by downing the Tars 7 to 2. Quickly recovering from this blow, the Chapel Hill team regained its stride and came home with five straight triumphs.

Not only were the Carolina netmen victorious in scheduled meets, but they also took top honors in two major tournaments. In the State title meet, Harris won the singles crown by defeating Minor, his teammate. The doubles final was also an All-U. N. C. affair with Captain Levitan and DeGray capturing the championship from Shore and Minor.

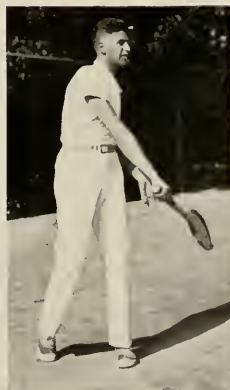

The Southern Conference Tourney was a repetition of the State event as the Carolina aggregation showed its true championship calibre in annexing both the single and doubles crowns. In the former Captain Levitan closed his brilliant career by defeating DeGray in straight sets, while in the latter the two singles finalists teamed to take the title from Minor and Henderson.

Carolina completed its most successful season in track during the 1935 season, winning four dual meets, its fourteenth consecutive State championship and its third straight Southern Conference title. Thus U. N. C. gained a "grand slam" in Dixie track athletics for the 1934-35 year.

On April 6th, the Fetzner-Ranson coached squad opened its year with a smashing 76-49 victory over William and Mary in weather more appropriate for a duck's party. Carolina showed itself a well-balanced squad and promised well for the future.

The team next scored a surprising top-heavy 95 1-6 to 30 5-6 victory over the University of Virginia

In the Penn Relays, the Tar Heels emerged with third place in the four-mile relay, third in the 880-yard relay, third in the 220-yard low hurdles by Tom Hawthorne, and third in the broad jump by Floyd Higby.

After a short rest, Carolina returned to cinder-path activity to successfully repulse the attempts of Duke to capture the State title, which Carolina had held for the past 13 years. When the final race had been run the score board showed 72 1-2 points for the Tar Heels to but 67 for the Blue Devils. Only two double winners were produced—Harry Williamson in the 880 and 1-mile for Carolina, and Woodward in the two dashes for Duke. Williamson's time of 4:21.8 was a new State mark for the mile.

Tom Evins continued to show great improvement in the shot put, taking the crown, after a record-breaking heave of 46 feet, 7 3-8 inches had given him his second straight triumph over the famed Williams brothers of Duke.

In the only dual meet away from home, Carolina's heavy artillery sunk the Navy at Annapolis by a 72-54 count. Frank Abernethy and Harry Williamson led the Tar Heels by establishing new meet marks.

Harry Williamson, though defeated by Mothershead of V. P. I. in the mile event, captured the 880 in time only .1 second short of the Conference mark and then ran a brilliant anchor-leg in the mile relay to give the Tar Heels second place in the event. Carolina's 1935 varsity golf team, in keeping with other sports, came through with an impressive record. It registered ten wins, two ties, and split engagements with N. C. State and Duke. After taking its first three matches, the team lost to State in a close match, 10½ to 7½, played in the rain.

The Tar Heels then beat Duke 10-8, tied the crack Richmond University team, and overwhelmed Furman, Boston College, Davidson, and Furman again in a return match. Journeying to Athens to compete in the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament, Carolina annexed the team championship with an aggregate of 615.

In the State Championship, Carolina took second place to Duke, but individual honors were won by Wilson Coffin. A tie with Davidson, a loss to Duke, and a victory over W. & L. completed their dual matches. The Southern Conference Tournament saw Carolina win the runner-up post, but again copping the individual title—Erwin Laxton winning with 148. Monograms were awarded to Laxton, Harris, Coffin, Bridgers, and Pijanowsky.

N. C. State proved easy pickings for the Tar Heels at Raleigh, but the following week Duke humbled them 27-30. Moss of the Blue Devils handed Gammon his only set-back of the season in dual meets. Gammon and Conte repeated their one-two act against V. M. I. as Carolina triumphed 23-32.

Due to injuries and sickness throughout the season, Carolina's wrestling team did not display the potential power it was supposed to have possessed. Coach Quinlan's men did, however, make a better showing for 1936, as they won three and lost three. A seventh meet with W. & L. was cancelled because of bad weather conditions.

The outstanding wins came over Duke and Davidson. Carolina continued to prove superior to its Blue Devil rivals as it won the third consecutive engagement between the pair by a 16-14 count, and gained revenge over the Davidson Wildcats with a thrilling 20-18 triumph.

Captain Allan Bonner led the Tar Heel point-getters with four wins, while Tankersley, Williams, and Umstead were close behind with three each. Kaluk, Lytle, Kephart, Gwyn, Smith, and Paterick were others who came through at crucial moments to put Carolina in the win column. The squad was never at full strength as Captain Bonner, Lytle, and Umstead were kept out with injuries at various times.

Carolina was represented at Southern Conference championships by Captain Bonner, Williams, Gwynn, and Kaluk. Of these, Williams was the only one to reach the finals, losing the title to Troxler of N. C. State.

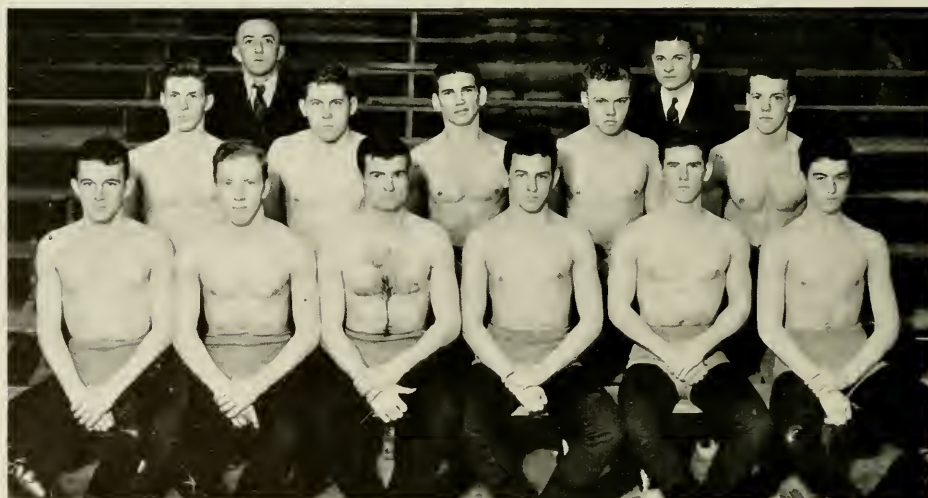

By graduation the team will lose three lettermen in Captain Bonner, Lytle, and Gwyn. The losses will be keenly felt, but with a strong freshman squad coming up, prospects for 1937 look cheerful.

All dances given at the University of North Carolina are held under the auspices and regulations of the University Dance Committee. Persons brought before this committee are judged and sentenced in secrecy, free from being involved otherwise than with the dance committee's authority. Through the valuable cooperation of Dr. Bernard, faculty dance committee representative, the committee has attained a position of respect by Keeping dances above the university standards. Formerly there were eleven members on the committee, consisting of two from the Grail, one hold-over member, one from each of the upper classes, one from the Interfraternity Council, and three from the German Club. This year a representative was added from the Interdormitory Council, making a total of twelve.

TIME STAGGERS ON

BY PETE IVEY

You who like stories on a small scale with simple pattern and plot don't read any further, because in the following epic are classical and romantic situations, suspense, blood and thunder, strong men and all kinds of women, desperate struggles of harassed alma mater to keep her honor unbesmirched, and all the joy, tragedy and pathos of poetry, melodrama, opera and even musical comedy and tales of mystery.

The scene of our story is in a little North Carolina village, that by some freak of circumstance is blasphemed by a university. The time is the year 1935-36. The plot, though involved and jumblish, is verification for the adage that truth is stranger than fiction. The cast of characters includes heroes, villains, jesters, and in fact all the types that may be found in all the plays, including Proff. Koch's.

The freshman class first came on the scene and proceeded to gain for itself the reputation of the freshest bunch of ex-highschoolers seen in Chapel Hill in many years.

Upperclassmen, however, were more concerned with a weighty matter: eating. Swain Hall had been closed during the summer because of a deficit, and students began to pay 20 per cent higher board than formerly. "Just wait 'till Phil Hammer puts out his first TAR HEEL," said one junior. "He'll give South Building hell."

And he did. Energetic, fly-off-the-handle Phil Hammer began shooting his bolts of sarcasm at everything he thought vulnerable. No stuffed shirt was safe, because Phil might at any time jerk the shirt tail out. The TAR HEEL was rambunctious and effervescent. Columns by Mac Smith, Irving Suss, Terence Palmer, Stuart Rabb, Don Becker, and George Butler brightened the HEEL.

Bewildered slightly by such impediments as fraternity rushing, knowledge that the Tin Can was on attendance probation and Gerrard Hall condemned, amazed that Mrs. Victor Humphries had turned the Archer House into a Woman's dormitory, the campus at last settled down to some class work, disturbed only by reports from the football field that "Coach Snavelly's boys look pretty good in practice."

As the Di and Phi debated the Swain Hall situation and other activities began to function with a giant fellow named Jake Snyder being selected to head Student-Faculty Day and Walter Spearman joining O. J. Coffin in the journalism department, the football defeated Wake Forest in a slow contest—final score, 14-0. A gentleman by the name of Johnny Sniscak starred (more about him later).

Some mean people started a movement to abolish all two-year medical schools; whereupon Dr. Frank P. Graham studied the situation, told the mean people where to get off in a nice way and the Med. school was safe.

Coach Snavelly gets confidential with the football team and tells them they ought to whip Tennessee, and just to show the world that Snavelly is a prophet and there was but one football team, the Tar Heels went out to Knoxville and lambasted the Vols 38-13, with Don Jackson's tossing passes and running and Jim Hutchins smashing the line. Mr. Sniscak ran interference.

Maryland, the next team to be played, asked an explanation on how come Carolina's John Sniscak looked so much like a certain "Pimple John" Sniscak who had been playing for various and sundry football teams over a period of years. It couldn't be explained to everybody's satisfaction, so Sniscak left Chapel Hill and went back to the coal-laden mountains of Pennsylvania.

Carl G. Snavelly, gloomy like a fox, tells the team all is lost if they don't beat Maryland, and the gridiron fans read in the papers next day that North Carolina trod Maryland underfoot 33-0.

"Rose Bowl?" shouted the sports writers. Alumni pricked up their ears and were off on a hot scent. Wallace Wade, over in Durham, pursed his lips.

"Don't look much like Rose Bowl to me," said Davidson folks when the best Carolina could do with the Wildcats was 14-0. Don Jackson was being boosted by Bob Madry for All-American. That same week Georgia Tech beat Duke one touchdown, and sports fans picked Carolina to beat Duke.

Shouts of glee arose when Jackson, Hutchins, Bershak, Daniel, Montgomery, Snyder and company bottled up the Georgia Tech air attack and ran over them with three touchdowns. The Golden Tornado, abated to a zephyr, departed from Kenan Stadium.

Hunk Anderson gave his boys at State College a pep talk, but it was no use. The Wolfpack went back to the showers with a tin can tied onto their tails. Carolina knocked them all over Riddick Field in the 35-6 triumph. Thumbing back to Chapel Hill after the game a hitch hiker, instead of yelling, "Chapel Hill," called "Rose Bowl!"

At breakfast every morning the football players read all the news about themselves that was fit to print.

The annual football game between the Tar-Mags and the Yackety-Bucs ended in a one touchdown victory for the Y. B.'s. The TAR HEEL gave it a five line story.

Phil Hammer released a straw ballot, the third of the year. Numerous fraternities had tea parties and a bunch of other lads thumbed to Durham.

Bill Stronach was elected President of the Freshman class as the yearlings learned about political frame-up from gents who know the ropes.

A small crowd attended the 56-0 massacre of V. M. I. Every member of the squad played. People jumped on the Tar Heel Rose Bowl bandwagon and sports writers said it was in the bag if Carolina got by Duke which was also a sure thing.

Nobody studied before the Duke game. Bob Madry neared a nervous breakdown. Wallace Wade publicly anticipated defeat for his Blue Devils. Big city sports writers began to come into the village for the big game. News reel men took pictures of practice the day before the game as Snively and Max Reed looked on desperately.

Gentle readers may skip the next few paragraphs if they so desire.

In a drizzly rain, thousand and thousands of people packed the Duke stadium to see the Blue Devils beat Carolina 25-0. The Tar Heels received a dose of the medicine they had been administering all season. Up 'till the last part of the fourth quarter staunch Carolina supporters refused to believe the Tar Heels could be defeated. But it was done, as Ace Parker and Jack Alexander, behind a valiant line, did everything good football players should do.

"Rose Bowl" shouted Duke supporters at Carolina fans who were leaving the game with hats pulled over their eyes.

Durham alumni, angered by taunts of Duke men, accused Wallace Wade of taking motion pictures of Snavely's formations in actual games. Newspapers played it up and Carolina jumped on it as a substantial alibi. The noise died away in a few days and the football team went back to work, preparing for the Virginia game. And on Thanksgiving day, just to show they still had power, Carolina rolled over the Cavaliers 61-0.

Trying to forget the shock of defeat, the campus went to hear the English debaters, studied their lessons, and went to see the Playmaker experimentals. Francis Fairley represented the State in the Rhodes Scholarship finals but was not successful.

Dr. Y. Z. Chang made another speech, and Dr. Archibald Henderson was made Admiral in the Kentucky Navy. Other professors told the same jokes and made lectures in the Bull's Head which had been moved from the Y to the Library.

Playmakers produced Paul Green's college play "The Enchanted Maze," and Memorial Hall was packed for three nights as Green "told all" about college life. In a Chapel address, Dean R. B. House denounced the play, saying, in spirit, that the play was lousy, although the Playmakers did a good job of a poorly written piece of work. Proff Koch defended the play in New York, saying Duke University was not the object of the play's satire.

Phil Hammer wrote some more blasting editorials, conducted another straw ballot and again demanded the reopening of Swain Hall. "That boy is too damned fresh," was the gist of South Building reaction to Phil's crusades.

Frank P. Graham, as a member of the committee on athletics of the National Association of State Universities, advocated purification of athletics and insinuated the clean-up should begin at home. The other college presidents layed low as Graham took all the obligations on himself.

The TAR HEEL gave sanitary ratings of eating establishments and Doc Sutton had running fits.

The new governor of Kentucky withdrew all honorary degrees, leaving Admiral Archibald Henderson out in the cold. The Christmas holidays came just in time to keep most of us from having nervous breakdowns.

No matter how far away from Chapel Hill students went during the Christmas holidays, always they were asked, "What happened to your football team November 16?" It took real courage to explain away the Duke defeat. Very little alibi-making was done. When pressed, some would infer vaguely that perhaps all was not on the up and up.

Safely back in Chapel Hill, it was found that Phil had again taken up the cudgel and was swinging it around, regardless of upon whose head it fell.

THERE are no BUTTS (nor "ifs" and "ands," either) about a HANES Shirt! Wait till you get its lively, elastic lightness clasping your chest in its feather-weight grip; snugging comfortably under your arms; cool and smooth on your back. You've never felt more trim and clean-cut in your life!

And, Gentlemen, here is an undershirt that won't get your goat . . . won't ride up in the rear or front to make a worrisome wad at your waist! A HANES shirt-tail is too long for that. It's out of sight and out of mind — which means it's in your shorts!

Every time you buy a HANES Shirt, team it up with a pair of HANES Shorts. You'll find we give the seat full consideration — leave you enough space to sit, stoop, or walk without being cramped in the crotch! See your HANES Dealer today. P. H. Hanes Knitting Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Richard Waymire, alias Dick Weesner, played dead and fooled R. B. House. Graham Memorial entertained visiting student union folk. Student-Faculty Day was approaching and many committees made arrangements. Venerable Bill McDade, janitor, died after long years of service with the University. His body lay in state in Graham Memorial.

Alumni and newspapers raged over the Graham Plan for keeping athletics free from subsidization. Alumni clubs held meetings condemning the Plan.

The boxing team started off well enough; the wrestling team was fair; the basketball team showed more promise than any of the others.

Co-eds began to assert themselves. Women students organized a Y. W. C. A. under the watchful eyes of Harry Comer and Helen Hodges. The Di Senate admitted to membership Hazel Beacham, the first female to be a member of that austere organization.

The White Phantoms took an awful beating from N. Y. U. and New York papers kidded the heck out of the hicks from North Carolina who got stage fright. Virginia beat the Carolina boxers.

Snow, snow, and snow. No sooner did one come and slowly melt than another arrived to take its place. The infirmary was crowded. Snow ball battles kept part of the campus entertained.

Consternation covered the campus as rumors of a wholesale cheating ring excited the State. Douglas Cartland, former Phi Beta Kappa student of the University, had organized a business of illegally aiding students to pass their work. Aid was given on examinations, daily work and term papers. Whole correspondence courses were taken for substantial remuneration. Copies of examinations were stolen and stooges were planted in halls and toilets to aid customers.

A freshman told a senior what he had heard concerning the cheating ring, and the senior, Joe Barnette, organized a committee of investigation which found enough suspicious incidences to verify charges. They told President Graham and he placed the matter entirely in the hands of the students.

Cartland was surprised in his room and without much trouble a complete confession was extracted. Bills and receipts incriminating scores of students were found in his room.

The student council tried about 75 students and found 51 guilty, including President of the Student Body Jack Pool, who was not involved in the cheating ring itself but admitted he had been guilty of cheating previously.

The exposures resulted in a campaign to do something about the honor system. Students, it was found, had too lax an idea of how it should work. A committee was appointed to investigate and suggest changes in the honor system. Phil Hammer and Fred Weaver were the leaders of the re-organization committee.

Francis Fairley was appointed President of the Student Body. The student council, in a spurt of activity following the cheating ring, abolished hell week.

The University of North Carolina was announced as the representative of the Universities of the United States to represent America in debates in England during the Spring. Harry McMullan and Donald Seawell were named to go.

The Southern Conference, pushed by President Graham, passed the Graham Plan, 6-4.

Less than 48 hours before Student-Faculty Day was to have begun, the University administrative committee postponed the holiday because of too much influenza and the lingering snows. Gladys Swarthout came, sang, and went.

Alumni met in the Carolina Inn to honor John Sprunt Hill and raised hell over the Graham Plan. "It's a most damnable situation," stormed J. S. Hill. Resolutions were adopted and questionnaires were sent out to find out how other alumni felt. The newspapers waxed hotter.

Senator R. R. "Our Bob" Reynolds blew into town and drank beer at Harry's.

People were temporarily appeased when the White Phantoms marched through all the teams in the Southern Conference to win the basketball title the second consecutive year. It was a real Frank Merriwell stunt, aided and abetted by one Lath Morris, of Farmville.

Coach Carl G. Snaveley accepted an offer to coach at Cornell University, and he was released from contract in Chapel Hill. The wrath of alumni boiled over and sports writers said, "I told you so."

Phil Hammer left school because of an approaching nervous breakdown and he and the campus rested until he returned in the Spring Quarter.

Dean N. W. Walker died February 13.

Charles Poe, Editor of the MAGAZINE, wrote an article in favor of President Graham titled "Kick Graham Out." A lot of people thought Charlie really meant it. Editor of THE BUCCANEER Nelson Lansdale frothed at the mouth because of "crooked politics."

When Spring came the student council re-admitted 34 of the 51 students suspended for their connection with the cheating ring.

Dr. Y. Z. Chang taught a course on Confucianism and, believe it or not, Dave Clark said nothing about subversive Chinese propaganda.

Student-Faculty Day was celebrated April 8. Students and profs ate and fraternized together. They danced at the lower quadrangle and threw eggs. At the upper quadrangle R. B. House lost a game of horseshoes to A. W. Hobbs, and Dr. Graham threw several ringers. That night a stunt program arranged by Jane Ross packed Memorial Hall.

Corydan P. Spruill was named Dean of the General College which featured the new curriculum set-up.

Tennis was the only sport worth mentioning in the Spring quarter. Coach Kenfield's men, led by DeGray, Shores, Potts, and Archie Henderson, advanced successfully through all opposition.

Dr. H. V. P. Wilson retired as head of the Department of Zoology but continued his teaching duties.

The strong and smoothly-working University party made almost a clean sweep of campus offices in the Spring elections.

The ears of Mars burned April 22 when the annual anti-war strike condemned munitions and other systems that make for war. Speeches and banners marked an orderly demonstration, and except for a cry of "communism" from Dave Clark everything went off quietly.

The annual keep-off-the-grass campaign was begun, and signs reading PLEASE were erected. NYA students shouted at people who persisted in walking on the lawns.

Hester Barlow, of Cairo, Egypt, was elected Carolina's first May Queen, and Mary Pride Cruikshank was the Maid of Honor.

Felix Frankfurter delivered the Weil lectures, speaking on the Supreme Court and the Commerce Clause.

Dr. Archibald Henderson was way off in a guess he made in a contest sponsored by the Alumni Association. All alumni who have ever attended the University were to be estimated and Dr. Henderson, eminent mathematician, guessed over twice the actual number. Dr Henderson was pacified by being re-instated as an Admiral in the Kentucky Navy.

The Golden Fleece, in a new ceremony, tapped Nat Townsend, Fred Weaver, Ben Willis, Harry Williamson, Frank Willingham, Joe Barnette, Niles Bond, Jake Snyder, and Don McKee.

The faculty baseball team beat the Seniors 17 to 16. The Senior regalia failed to arrive, but Senior Week went on just the same, and a mammoth stunt night was staged in Memorial Hall. Claude

As we approach the happy ending of our tale, we realize that it is only a continued story, because so many things are still dangling in mid-air, and newly-introduced heroes and villains have come on the scene.

The crash of our story came on November 16 and it seemed that for the next several months matters grew worse, and the added misfortunes of the cheating ring and the snows made for semi-tragedy.

The climax came on Student-Faculty Day, April 8. On that day the spirit of the student body took an upward spurt. Denouements may come and denouements may go but the unraveling of the story of 1935-36 will keep right on going until the last surviving alumnus of the class has said to some youth many, many years from now, "You may think college life exciting, but you should have been a student in Chapel Hill back in '36."

ARISTOCRAT

Chatham Homespun has been one of North Carolina's distinguished products since 1877, when Alexander Chatham began operating the Elkin Woolen Mills. This aristocratic material, like the fine, strong cloth that was woven by hand in the Blue Ridge, has become known throughout the country as the best wearing fabric ever made.

Today, there's a new story about this old yarn. A famous men's tailor, L. Greif & Bro. of Baltimore, tailors Chatham Homespun into smart, sturdy suits for men. You will find a selection of the newest models at Lipscomb Gattis Co. in Durham; Nowell Clothing Co. in Raleigh, and Vanstory Clothing Co. in Greensboro.
